

Author Copyright Agreement

StarNexus Science Press (Hong Kong) ("StarNexus")

If your article has been accepted for publication, each author must sign a copyright agreement form after reading the Explanatory Notes below and either (for online submissions) follow the online instructions or (for email submissions) send the signed forms, in electronic format, to the Editor (or other recipient as advised by the Editor of the specific journal), together with the final version of the article.

So that we can ensure both the widest dissemination and protection of material published in StarNexus's journals, we ask authors to grant StarNexus a non-exclusive license to publish and distribute their articles, including abstracts, while retaining ownership of the copyright. This enables us to ensure copyright protection against infringement, and to disseminate your article, and our journals, as widely as possible.

1. In consideration of the undertaking set out in paragraph 2, and upon acceptance by StarNexus for publication in the Journal, [insert the full names of all authors, reflecting the name order given in the article] hereafter 'the Author' hereby grants to StarNexus a non-exclusive license to publish and distribute the Article, [insert article title]

hereafter 'the Article' by the Author to be published in [insert journal title] hereafter ('the Journal'). The Article will be published under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License (CC BY 4.0), which allows anyone to copy, distribute, and adapt the work, provided proper attribution is given to the author(s) and the source. This license provides StarNexus the right and responsibility to publish the Article, including the right to sub-license publishing or distribution rights to the Article as may be appropriate, in both printed and electronic form; the Article may be published in printed, online, CD-ROM, microfiche or in other media formats.

2. In consideration of this license, StarNexus hereby undertakes to prepare and publish the Article named in paragraph 1 in the Journal, subject to its right to refuse publication on the grounds set forth in paragraph 5 or on other legitimate grounds; in such case StarNexus hereby terminates this license, and the Author retains all rights under this Agreement.
3. The Editor of the Journal and StarNexus are empowered to make such editorial changes as may be necessary to make the Article suitable for publication. Every effort will be made to consult the Author if substantive changes are required.
4. The Author hereby asserts his/her moral rights under the Hong Kong Copyright Ordinance (Cap. 528), Part IV (Moral Rights), Section 89 (right to be identified as author) and Section 92 (right to object to derogatory treatment of work) to be identified as the Author of the Article.
5. The Author warrants that the Article is the Author's original work, it has not been published before either in full or in part and is not currently under consideration for publication elsewhere; and that the Article contains no libellous or unlawful statements and that it in no way infringes the rights of others, nor it is in breach of any Hong Kong SAR law, and that the Author, as the owner of the copyright, is entitled to grant this license. If the Author is the Corresponding Author*, the Author warrants that where s/he enters into any correspondence about or agrees to any changes to the Article s/he is authorised to act on behalf of any co-authors in doing so and has provided full and accurate information relating to them where required on the understanding that no further changes can be made after signature of this Agreement.

* The Author designated in the published Article as the individual to contact in the event of an enquiry about a manuscript. The Corresponding Author normally is responsible for correcting page proofs and working with the production editor.

Author Copyright Agreement: Explanatory Notes

StarNexus's policy is to obtain a non-exclusive license for all contributions, for the following reasons:

- centralized licensing by a central body helps to ensure maximum international protection against infringement and/or plagiarism;
- requests for permission to reproduce articles in books, course packs, electronic reserve or for library loan can be handled centrally, relieving authors of a time-consuming administrative burden;
- the demand for research literature in electronic form can be met efficiently, with proper safeguards for authors, editors and journal owners.

There are opportunities to reach institutions (e.g. companies, schools and public libraries) and individual readers that are unlikely to subscribe to the printed Journal. StarNexus works with other organisations to publish its journals online, and to deliver copies of individual articles. StarNexus has established licensing arrangements to facilitate legitimate use and dissemination of its published content. Income received from all of these sources is used to further the interests of the Journal.

Once accepted for publication, your Article will be published in the Journal, and will be stored and distributed electronically, in order to meet increasing library and faculty demand and to deliver it as part of the Journal, as an individual article or as part of a larger collection of articles to meet the specific requirements of a particular market. By signing this Author Copyright Agreement and granting the rights described above, you agree to StarNexus making such arrangements.

It may be that the Author is not able to grant this license solely by him- or herself:

- If it is appropriate, the Author's employer may sign this agreement. The employer may reserve the right to use the Article for internal or promotional purposes (by indicating on this agreement) and reserve all rights other than copyright. Under Section 14 of the Hong Kong Copyright Ordinance (Cap. 528), copyright in a work made by an employee in the course of employment vests initially in the employer.
- If the Author is a Hong Kong SAR Government employee, under Section 182 of the Hong Kong Copyright Ordinance (Cap. 528), copyright in a work made by an officer of the Government in the course of his duties vests initially in the Government. The Government will grant a non-exclusive licence to publish the Article in the Journal in any medium or form provided that Hong Kong SAR Government copyright and user rights (including patent rights) are reserved.
- If the Author is a US Government employee and the work was done in that capacity, the license applies only to the extent allowed by US law.

Under the Hong Kong Copyright Ordinance (Cap. 528), Part IV (Sections 89–98), the Author has the moral right to be identified as the Author wherever the Article is published, and to object to its derogatory treatment or distortion. Specifically, Section 89 confers the right of attribution, Section 92 confers the right of integrity, and Section 96 confers the right against false attribution. Moral rights are independent of copyright and cannot be sold or transferred, though they may pass to heirs upon the Author's death. The Publisher encourages assertion of this right; it represents best publishing practice and is an important safeguard for all authors. Paragraph 4 above asserts the Author's moral rights, as required by the Ordinance.

Authors can use their Article in the following ways after publication:

- Posting the *Author's Original on the Author's personal or departmental web pages and/or institutional repositories and/or subject repositories without embargo and sharing it as much as desired. For open [freely available] repositories, if the manuscript was funded by the Hong Kong Research Grants Council (RGC) or other funding bodies with corresponding requirements, follow the Creative Commons licence designated by the funder. Otherwise, no additional restrictions apply as the Article is published under CC BY 4.0;
- Posting the *Accepted Manuscript
 - Internally sharing the Accepted Manuscript within their research collaboration groups at any time
 - Posting the Accepted Manuscript on institutional repositories and/or subject repositories without embargo (as this journal is Gold Open Access)
 - Posting the Accepted Manuscript on academic social networks or social media without embargo (as this journal is Gold Open Access)
- Note for authors of articles funded by the Hong Kong Research Grants Council (RGC) and other funding bodies: As this journal is Gold Open Access, all articles are made freely available immediately upon publication with no embargo period. This fully complies with the RGC Open Access Plan requirements (90-day deposit) and similar funder mandates. No further action is required on the part of the author to meet funder OA requirements.
- Posting the *Version of Record: As this journal is Gold Open Access, the Version of Record is made freely available immediately upon publication. Authors may share and distribute the final published PDF without any embargo restriction, and may deposit it in subject-based repositories such as PubMed Central at any time, without any embargo period, if required by their funding agency.
- Incorporating the article content in other works by the Author.

In all cases, acknowledgement in the form of a full citation must be given to Journal of Interactive and Intelligent Learning (JIIL) as the original source of publication, together with a link to the journal webpage and/or DOI as soon as they are available.

*Versions of a paper defined as

- Author's Original = Author's manuscript prior to peer review [often called a 'preprint']
- Accepted Manuscript = Accepted version of author's manuscript, accepted for publication, i.e. post-review, pre-typesetting. We recommend retaining this version for future posting.
- Version of Record = Publisher's version of finished article

StarNexus, as Publisher, reserves the right to refuse to publish your Article where its publication creates – or it reasonably believes may create – legal liability, or where circumstances come to light that were not known to the Editor, including prior publication of the whole or part of the Article, conflict of interest, manifest error, etc. StarNexus is the ultimate custodian of academic quality and integrity, and will ensure that this will be done only in exceptional circumstances and on reasonable grounds. In such circumstances the license shall be terminated and the Author shall retain all rights.
